

American Lung Association Health House

"I have completed training for builders, designers and HVAC contractors across the country. To date, Insight Homes has developed the most holistic building process that not only already incorporates most of our guidelines into your existing building process, but has also done a superb job on integrating both energy efficiency and green technologies into all phases of construction and appliances.

*- Stephen Klossner
Technical Director for the American Lung Association®
Health House® Program*

Raising the Standards for Healthier Indoor Environments

What is an American Lung Association® Health House® home?

A Health House® home gives each homebuyer the satisfaction of knowing that their new home promotes healthy living environments. These homes are built to the most stringent building standards in the U.S., which when commissioned using third party verification includes site inspections during construction, and performance testing upon completion.

For more information go to www.insightde.com and click on the Health House® logo.

For more information on the 1st Health House® community on the east coast, see our ad for Deep Creek.

302-349-9480 • www.insightde.com